CHAMBER BEGINS EMPLOYMENT REFERRAL SERVICE

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce has begun a busy year beginning with questionnaires to the area industries asking for some suggestions as to what services they feel are lacking. Many replies and suggestions were received and the Chamber has decided to act upon two of them.

The first area of action will deal with an employment referral service. Plans are now being made to contact all of the area businessmen to determine what their immediate needs are in the line of personnel. The list will be compiled over the next two weeks and will then be housed at the First National Bank which will also be donating the manpower needed to operate the service.

Once the service has begun operation the general public will be given a number to call and will readily be able to find out what types of jobs are available in the area.

The employment referral service will be benefiting both the businessman and the general public. It will save the job-seeker many steps by letting him know who is hiring and where. It will also relieve the businessman of those seeking employment when they have no openings available.

An all out effort will be made by the Chamber to see to it that the list is kept up to date and it is hoped the participating businessmen will let the service know when a job has been filled.

This will be the first employment referral service in Antioch and it will be operated free of cost to all participants, businessmen and job seekers alike.

The second area of action will deal with the erection of a sign at the intersection of Rte 173 and McMillan Road. The sign will alert the motorist that McMillan Road may be used as an industrial park entrance.

It is hoped the sign will detour some of the traffic from the residential sections of Ida and Main Street and reroute some of the heavy truck traffic.

A second sign displaying a map of the industrial park would be moved halfway down MacMillan Road to direct truckers to their destination.

Jim Dayton, who is chairman of the Industrial Relations Committee, presented the proposed plans to the Village Board on Monday night. The presentation did not go smoothly, however, and the Board withheld their approval until the matter is studied further.

Questions were raised as to the practicality of the structure. The sign is to be a free swinging one, and it was thought that a sign of such structure would be readily affected by wind. The Chamber said they were willing to make any of the changes the Board deemed necessary, and asked if the Board would be able to give them some financial support for the project which will cost approximately $1,000.

This request raised some question from the audience, as an unidentified gentleman asked why the taxpayers should be required to pay for a project that is designed to aid the industries? The proposed sign finances were discussed for some time, when Ken Palm, a policeman from Richmond, questioned the effectiveness of such a sign and suggested Antioch check into the possibility of securing highway truck route signs.

The Board then authorized Tod Maplethorpe, who is the Superintendent of Public Works, to check with the state and with the Highway Department as to the feasibility of such signs.

The Village Board's street committee was assigned to work with the Chamber of Commerce concerning the proposed sign.

MR. ROBERT C. WILTON is the Citizen's Action Party (C.A.P.) candidate for Mayor of the Village of Antioch. On Page 7 of this paper is a biography of the members of his party as presented to us. Next week we will run the biographies of the Progressive Peoples Party. In this way we hope to fairly bring to you, the voters, a resume of all the candidates so that you may cast your vote intelligently this April. (Staff Photo)

VILLAGE BOARD ACCEPTS ZONING BOARD RECOMMENDATIONS

On Monday, February 5th the Antioch Village Board passed a motion to accept the recommendations of the Zoning Board of Appeals concerning the Curnes Development. The Zoning Board recommended the proposal for a change in the zoning classification from R-4 Two Family Dwelling District to R-5 Multiple Family Dwelling District be denied.

However, the zoning board recommended to the board that an R-4 zoning remain with a Special Use Permit. This recommendation is in accordance with the recommendation made by the Antioch Plan Commission.

The Zoning Board based their recommendation on the following ten conditions:

1. that a definite timetable for the expansion of the sewage treatment plant be established.
2. that a schedule of construction be provided and that it be in congruence with the above timetable.
3. that covenants and agreements be obtained for the improvement of Anita Avenue.
4. that buffering be provided along the eastern and northern boundaries allowing for only duplex (or townhouse) dwelling as provided for under R-4 zoning.

5. that the interior street plan be accepted as presented and that a definite agreement be signed for a barrier to the Greenbriar Street area on the east so that no traffic would enter or exit onto same.

6. that specific engineering studies be provided for proposed storm water retention on

NEED HELP ? DIAL LAKE COUNTY EASTER SEALS

"Dial for help" type services have given Ma Bell's product a popular new use and the respectability of a good community service that makes the telephone itself a good citizen.

But most "dial a message" or "dial a friend" services are designed to help a person with a particular problem - whether spiritual, physical or interpersonal. Easter Seal societies around the country are moving toward filling the "information void" left among all these services by serving as a clearinghouse for disabled persons needing help with health and social welfare problems and following up on the services received.

The program is called in Information, Referral and Follow-up service (IR&F). It means the Lake County Easter Seal Society stands ready to assist individuals and families in their search for services that may be available through voluntary and public agencies as well as private institutions and professional practitioners. It may be health or welfare advice that's needed or access to any other area services.

Throughout its 53-year history, the National Easter Seal Society has sought to improve and expand its services for the handicapped. This led to adoption of Information, Referral and Follow-up as the basic program of the nationwide organization in 1966. The problems that created site with storage capacity for excess run-off and for control devices to regulate the rate of run-off.

7. that a storm water main be installed along the eastern boundary and that covenants and agreements be obtained for an easement along the main.

8. that a professional landscaper be called to evaluate the planting charts and the buffer planting area.

9. that covenants and agreements be obtained for the above items and for the use and maintenance of all common and-or public areas.

10. that only those plans presented to the Zoning Board of Appeals be accepted as the plans of this "Planned Unit Development" and that they be adhered to by written and binding agreement and-or ordinance. The PUD plan as presented to this board has been signed by Grant Spong, Chairman, dated January 18, 1973.

The Zoning Board also recommended the Village Board take into consideration the width of the street proposed for this development, the type of construction materials of the same and also the construction materials of the parking areas; street lighting and the possibility of a security or performance bond.

Having accepted these recommendations, the Village Board now has 30 days to take action on passing the zoning ordinance with a Special Use Permit for the Curnes property.

EHRHART RECEIVES AWARD

Mr. Walter Barnas, Antioch Postmaster, presented Gerald R. Ehrhart with an award and bonus this week. Mr. Ehrhart has consistently performed his duties as window clerk in a manner substantially above average. It is estimated that his service to the public exceeds the norm by 20 percent.

A letter to Mr. Ehrhart from Stanley S. Rakowski, Sectional Center Manager, said, "This certificate of award is issued to you as a token of sincere appreciation for a job well done."

You are a member of the select group of employees who generously contribute their talents and efforts to improving operating efficiency and working conditions. You have thus reflected credit on the service."

Ehrhart projected the image of a Retail Clerk, which is a credit to the postal service through his neat appearance, courteous manner, and his helpful attitude to the public, promoting good will. Another contributing factor on Ehrhart's side is his versatility, which includes his ability to adjust the mail processing equipment, maintaining the street mail boxes, and maintaining postal equipment in the office. It was also noted that when an emergency arises, there is no doubt that he can be depended upon to step in and fill an immediate vacancy. This includes performing carrier duty.

Many customers have expressed appreciation for the fine way that Ehrhart attends to their needs and now the Post Office itself has joined suit in issuing this award. Congratulations, Mr. Ehrhart.

OUR CONGRESSMAN

ON REORGANIZING THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH OF THE GOVERNMENT

A new blow has been leveled at relations between the White House and Capitol Hill in the appointment of a Super Cabinet.

It is well known that the President during his first term was substantially frustrated in his efforts to secure enactment of domestic programs, including his efforts to reorganize the Executive Branch of the government.

The hodge-podge of Executive Departments and Agencies spawned over a period of 200 years makes very little sense in the light of current national needs. The logic of new Departments of (a) Natural Resources, (b) Human Resources, (c) Community Development and (d) Economic Development in place of many existing Departments and Agencies made a great deal of sense. However, members of the federal bureaucracy together with their close allies in the Congress, contributed to the defeat of these efforts at streamlining our federal government.

The President's most recent response has been the appointment of the Secretary of Agriculture as a Presidential Counselor in charge of natural resources, such as land use, environment, recreation, water control and others; Caspar W.

Weinberger, Secretary-designate of Health, Education and Welfare, as Presidential Counselor with responsibility for human resources, such as education, social security, health and manpower; and James T. Lynn, Secretary-designate of Housing and Urban Development as a Presidential Counselor in charge of community development, including highways, mass transportation and related functions.

Many in the Congress regard the President's action as an effort to disregard or supersede Congressional authority. In response to Congressional critics, the President has indicated that the reorganization of activities within the White House is limited to -- and will be utilized solely to facilitate the work of the President in supervising domestic affairs.

Not all Members of Congress are displeased by the measures being applied by the President for a reorganization of the Executive Branch. Support for the reorganization proposals seems to this Member of Congress to go hand-in-hand with measures to reform the Congress itself -- and thus present a more streamlined and more efficient administration of our legislative and domestic affairs.

No one should question the President's determination to follow through to the extent possible the domestic programs which were initiated during his first four years in office.

With the Congress in the spotlight, it behooves those Members of the House and Senate who have expressed their disapproval of the President's actions to demonstrate why the Executive Branch of government should not be reorganized as the President has proposed. In addition, they should offer constructive alternative measures -- promptly -- in order that the federal government may better meet the needs of the American people.

Letters to the Editor on any current issues are welcome. Only letters with names can be considered for this column. Signatures will be withheld on request. Letters cannot be returned and are subject to minor editing.

Dear People of Antioch:

I want to thank you so very much for the unexpected package that you sent to me for Christmas.

Although it was late, (as everything is) the contents were in A-1 shape and very appealing.

We need your support here and this package proves that we have it.

Thanks Again,

APRIL COME SHE WILL

A day is a mere 24 hours of time that quickly passes into tomorrow and on into the next day leaving yesterday far behind. In other words, today will soon be a yesterday and for that matter so will tomorrow. The rainy showers of this strange month of February will soon turn into the expected showers of April.

April is destined to be a critical month for many individual people as well as for the future of Antioch. By the time May flowers make their debut many important decisions will have been made and the Village and school board elections will have been completed.

February and March may be relatively quiet months, but they should also be months of preparation, not merely the calm before the storm. This is the time to get to know the candidates, their qualifications, capabilities and attitudes towards the vital issues that are facing Antioch. This is an easy suggestion to make, but for many it would be impractical if not impossible to carry out.

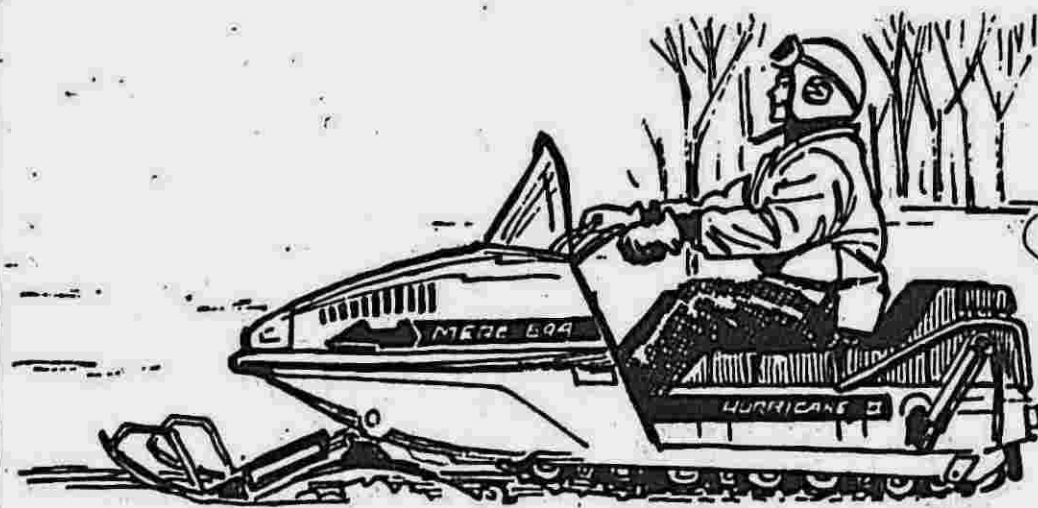

Although Antioch is a small town, it would be impossible for each person to question all the candidates personally.

Therefore, THE ANTIOCH NEWS has chosen to serve as an open vehicle to all who wish to take advantage of the opportunity. During the next two or three weeks, (beginning this week with Bob Wilton's party) a profile will be given of all of the candidates.

A list of pertinent questions concerning the future of Antioch will be distributed to all of the candidates and their answers will be published in the weeks to come. We would like you to raise particular questions, pass them on to us, and we will see to it they are directed to the candidates. The answers will be published in the following issue if possible. Please address it to THE ANTIOCH NEWS, 141 Cheri Lane, Antioch.

Through these means a clear picture should be obtained of the men and women who are seeking office. It is hoped these efforts will help the citizen's of Antioch to vote with greater accuracy than ever before for the real candidates of their choice. It is also hoped these efforts will curb the many calls on the day of the election asking who is running and what their qualifications are.

OF WAR AND ART

As the Vietnam War has finally and slowly drawn to an end Mr. Volk's social studies class is busy studying about World War I and II. Under a revised program they are using a new student text called Nations in Action: International Tensions.

Mr. Volk's class has, as have all the social studies classes, cast aside the traditional memorizing of facts and dates in favor of exploring reasons why and causes as concepts and inquiry have taken a greater priority.

The eighth grade class has learned about events leading up to World War I, the ensuing happenings, the harsh peace treaty that led to the rise of dictatorships, the revolution in Russia, the events and causes of World War II and on into recent American Foreign Policy.

To help illustrate all of the concepts the students have observed they have chosen relevant projects. Posters and reports were made of leaders, generals, and outstanding statesmen. They drew charts of the various countries resources, and some even depicted battle scenes. Most of the students worked in groups of two and three and then presented their projects to the class as a whole.

Mr. Volk has been teaching social studies in the Antioch Upper Grade School now for 15 years and has seen many changes in programs and teaching methods. However, Volk feels that today's programs are more interesting to more students and the program has been carried on very successfully through the aid of the central library and the resource center. It would be impossible to carry on such a program without them.

A lighter air can be found when you leave Mr. Volk's battlefront and travel down the hall to Mrs. Jensen's 6th grade Language Arts class. The room is a colorful one and is filled with many faces, shapes and ideas.

This week Mrs. Jensen's classes have had a choice of many projects. Some students choose to write and illustrate a story for the lower grades. These stories will be edited and sent to the other grade schools.

Other students wrote and illustrated a book of original hiku and some made posters illustrating various similes and metaphors. However, the majority of students chose to make a collage illustrating the idea of their choice.

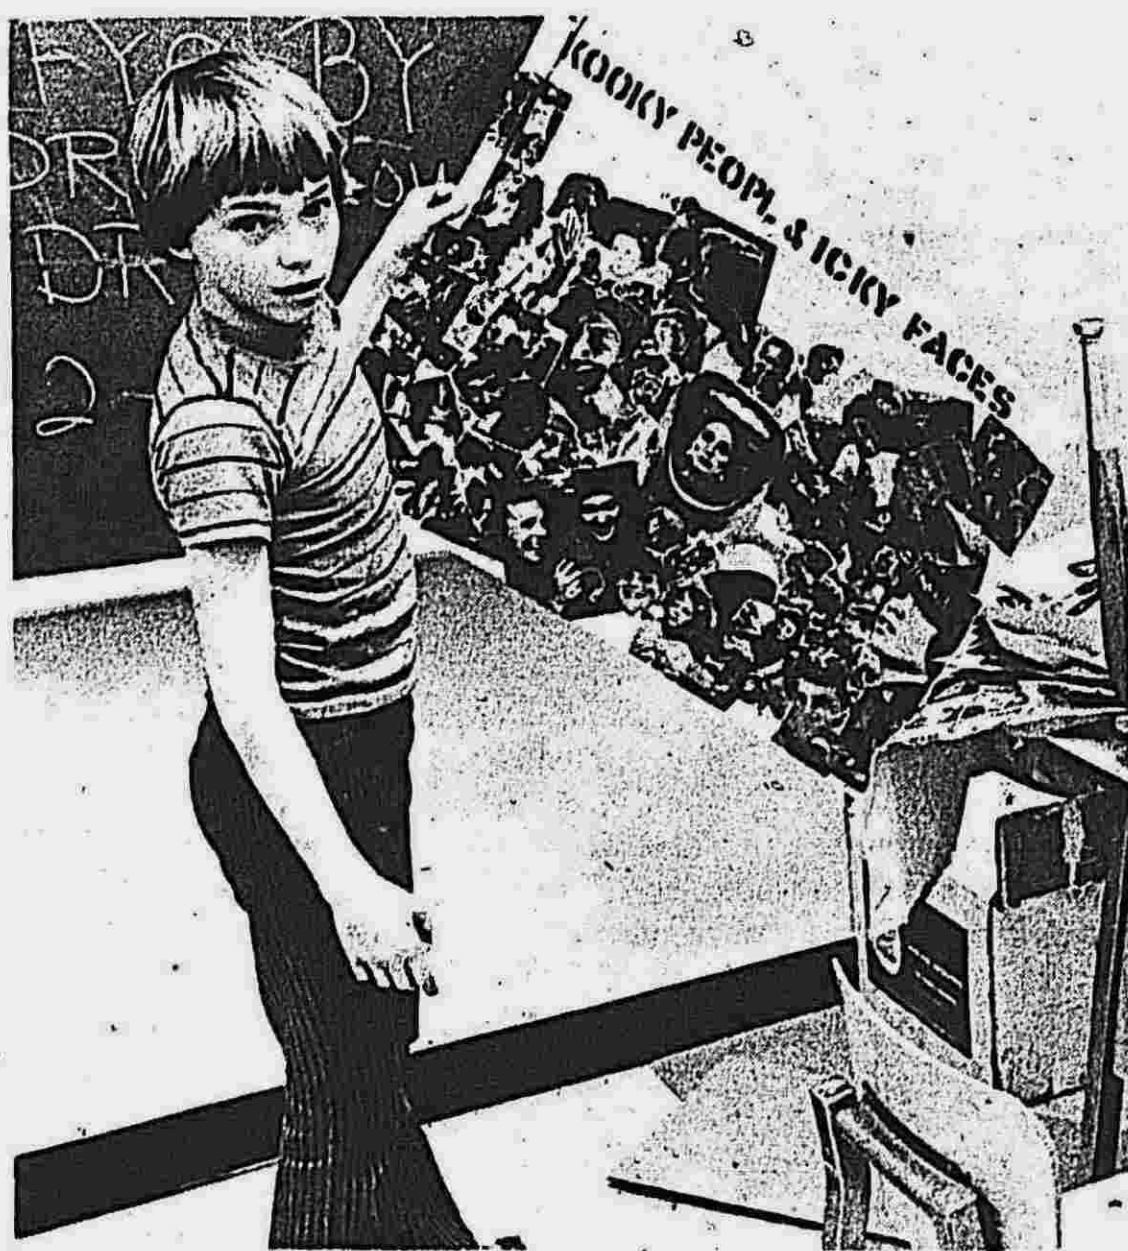

Mrs. Jensen said, "This was an art lesson integrated with sentence construction, adjectives, adverbs and descriptive phrases."

The students were allowed to work in groups of three on the projects, but if they did Mrs. Jensen told them that she then expected the projects to be three times as good as three heads should be better than one.

The students spent the week cutting out pictures from magazines, pasting them and varnishing them and the results were fantastic. A variety of subjects were touched upon including: the Vietnam War, world troubles, races, transportation, ecology, favorite record stars, etc. All of the collages were appropriately labeled and some were light and happy while others were on the serious side. "Kooky People and Icky Faces" held its own along side of "Long Live the President", "The World We Live In", "We are free...", depicting the end of the Vietnam war, and "I Can't Believe I ...".

Mrs. Jensen said the projects showed a lot of creativity and her students had done a better job than she had ever expected. Next week her class will return to their English lessons during which time they will touch on parts of speech that will parallel with creative writing.

David Mittel, sixth grader at the Antioch Upper Grade Center, displays his collage of "Kooky People and Icky Faces". The project was a joint effort between Mark Philips, Gene Lehn, and David Mittel. It did not seem to matter to any of the boys that "People" generally has two "Es", but their teacher, Mrs. Jensen, was quick to bring it to their attention. (Staff Photo) by Gloria Wells, a 6th Grader at the Antioch Upper Grade School. I'm here to tell of the true story about a gorgeous garden and man's progress.

My story begins in the middle of some very thick woods. There lies a fresh, clear, crisp waterfall. Around the falls are wild flowers in a rainbow of colors that are so very bright in the gleam of the sunlight. A creek twists in and out of a few trees and runs over rocks so smooth they feel like silk. This is a rather small area of land not yet disturbed.

Many animals live here with their families. They have a happy, care-free life and are safe with God's blessing.

No visitors ever come to this remote area, and it shows that this place is one of a few places left alone to grow.

Each spring the tree's buds open into fine colored leaves. The thick forest looks like a two-year-old's coloring book, with colors scribbled all over. Its a beautiful sight to see that each person enjoys in a different way.

The creek and the waterfall are another sight to see. They rustle by in any season, any weather. Mainly you hear about and see polluted waters, but this one is crystal clear, so clear you can see bottom. All the animals depend on this source of water.

The wild flowers which come in early spring and stay until late fall add that special touch to this secluded palace of wildlife. Their colors are bright and cheerful. Every animal that goes by is smiled at with a gay color.

Grass grows wild yet stays so green that if you stare at it too long you'll see green spots before your eyes.

If you yell as loud as you can from under the fall your words will be carried with the wind and whispered to anyone with an open mind.

But the most enjoyed sight is the golden sunset. It lights the sky with different colors and ends the day with a secret feeling that grows deep inside. As the sun sets all the animals seem to ly down and count their blessings of the day. At night, when the sun is setting, and the animals settle down, the wind blows in the trees as if saying come, come and be free, free as the wind.

The creek is heard rustling by, and the frogs, owls, and birds sing a lullabye all at the same time. This is the best part of the day, a time of thinking, resting, enjoying the night and the stars and moon.

Yes, this place is so lovely it seems unreal. But soon a tragic event takes place and as I tell of it think back—

One morning all the animals were awakened by a loud shot of a gun coming from inside the woods yet not far away. As they awake with fears in their hearts something horrible happened, the wildlife palace crumbled.

The animals suddenly looked up, seeing the creek dry as a bone not a drop of water in it, the fall had dissappeared, all the smiling wild flowers dead, the grass was brownweeds and everything had just died in that one instant.

Later the animals found themselves running on open land where the woods once were, fleeing the shots of guns.

At the end of this day everything was a mess, not only was everything dead and shot but surveyors came to the land to make plans for a great building that was to be built in this spot.

That night the sunset was a black gloomy one, it never was golden again.

So I leave you now, now that you've heard my story with this! Whenever passing a tree, flower, or any wild growth, think of this story and enjoy it whatever it is for someday it may be overcome by man's progress.

Gloria Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wells, of Savage Road, and a sixth grader at the Antioch Upper Grade Center wrote the above story that is both timely and poignant. A glimpse of how one little girl feels amidst these changing times can readily be seen.

It has been said that from mouths of babes come words of wisdom and in this spirit the Antioch News will continue to publish student writings from the area's grade schools.

PARKING LOT UNCOVERS A PIECE OF THE PAST

Heavy rains in the area uncovered some evidence of days gone by as an old zinc plate washed to the surface in the parking lot behind Hahn Jewelers.

The plate was discovered by Mr. George Hahn, who cleaned it up and sent it on to Mr. Joe Rush to see if a print could be made from the old plate.

Harold Gaston from A & B Printing was able to make this print and found that the plate had been used as an advertisement for silver plate. Mr. Gaston estimates that the plate was made in the very early 1900's, when zinc plates were popular.

The plate advertises an 1835 R. Wallace Silverware pattern called Marquette. Along side the picture of this very old pattern the following is written; "Refined taste usually turns toward simplicity - and a very graceful simplicity is a feature of the new Marquette Pattern."

Mr. William R. Mauch, who is an employee at Hahn's Jewelry and who has been in the business for 42 years, does not ever recall seeing the Marquette pattern. However, Mauch, originally from St. Louis, and belonging to the 4th generation of Mauch jewelers, recalls that the Marquette pattern was one of the original R. Wallace patterns and is very similar to the old Tudor style, which has been altered. Mauch said that this pattern has been long discontinued but the Wallace Company still lives on after weathering three reorganizations and is now listed under Wallace and Sons. As a matter of fact, Wallace patterns are still carried by Hahn Jewelry.

Mr. Mauch stated that it is not surprising that this old pattern has been discontinued as sterling silver and silver plate silverware has lost some of its former popularity to stainless steel. Mauch reflected that this old pattern of silver, had probably once made its way over the plains in covered wagons and stage coaches, clutched together with many other precious items of the time.

Mr. Hahn, who is the owner of the store, was able to uncover some more of the history related to the plate. He said that the building was always a jewelry store and had been operating since the last century. The store as far as Mr. Hahn knows was first owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Keulman and was then passed on to their son, Bussie Keulman. It has also been said that a fire once tore its way through the old building and if this is true it may account for the plate's settlement in the back parking lot.

1835 R. WALLACE SILVER PLATE THAT RESISTS WEAR

Refined taste usually turns toward simplicity — and a very graceful simplicity is a feature of the new Marquette Pattern. Call and see it.

CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICE MUST FILE STATEMENT OF ECONOMIC INTERESTS

In response to a number of recent inquiries about the Illinois Governmental Ethics Act, Grace Mary Stern, Lake County Clerk, has issued the following reminder:

All candidates for public office must file the Statement of Economic Interests with the County Clerk at the time they file the required papers to become a candidate, unless they have filed a statement within the past year with regard to the same unit of government.

All current holders of public office have presumably filed a statement of economic interests (before June 30th, 1972); if they were appointed (or elected) since that date they (presumably) filed at the time of said appointment. If they neglected to do so through some oversight, Mrs. Stern suggests they do so at once.

If those (incumbent) office-holders are running for office again this Spring for an office with the same unit of government, they need not file another statement until April 30th if one has been filed with the County Clerk within the past year.

All office holders must file anew by April 30th of every year.

Example: John Doe, Village Trustee, is running in April 1973, for Mayor of the Village. He filed his statement in June, 1972 as Trustee, and so will not need to file another until April 30th, 1973. Both offices come under the same unit of government.

Note however, that if John Doe wishes to run for his local School Board, he must file another statement of Economic Interest with the County Clerk at the time he becomes a candidate - because the unit of government is a different one.

Each statement deals with the business interests and income of the individual filing the statement in relation to a particular unit of government. For instance: John Doe is in the Sporting Goods business; he does no business with the village where he is currently a trustee and where he is running for mayor. Therefore his statement of economic interest filed with relation to his village would reveal no area of possible conflict. He does however, do extensive business with the local school. The statement which he would file then, in relation to his School Board candidacy, would reveal a different situation as regards possible conflict of interest.

Blank forms and printed copies of the Ethics Act are available at the County Clerk's office, said Mrs. Stern, and may be had upon request either by mail or in person.

The child remains with his family. The entire family benefits from medical and dental care, the sustained guidance and counseling of social workers, a monthly cash grant, distributions of useful goods and the aid of special educational programs.

Education is a vital part of the organization's program. All Foster Children are able to - and must - attend school. In each country in which the organization works, a North American director and his staff (citizens of the country) set up additional educational social welfare programs adapted to the needs of Foster Children and their families.

Despite the distance between the Foster Parents who contribute the funds and the Foster Children who receive them, the two keep in touch with monthly letters, translated by the organization. Foster Parents also receive a photograph and case history of their Foster Child, and annual progress reports as well.

Established in 1937, Foster Parents Plan works in ten countries in South America and Asia. Over 48,000 desperately poor children are being aided by individuals, families and groups in the United States, Canada and Australia.

The ranks of Foster Parents include the old, young, married, single, schools, fraternal organizations, clubs and many more. Their common denominator is the willingness to care for a child in desperate need.

For further information write Foster Parents Plan, 352 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10010.

FILIPINA

Amelia's parents had the dream most parents have - that they could give their children the opportunities they themselves lacked. But misfortune haunted these poor people. Father used to drive a rig, but an accident in about 1965 disabled him so that he is an invalid, and mother is sickly and blind in her left eye. They live in a poor rural community in Cavite, about 15 miles from PLAN's Manila Office.

Amelia is a lovely young person. She tries to help the family by earning a few pennies toward her own needs by selling carabao's milk early in the morning. Among her goals is some day being able to buy a horse so that her brother Eduardo could become a rig driver and earn more. Amelia is a charming, diligent girl who cooperates both at home and in school. She is eager to make good, and, like her sister Soledad, Amelia dreams of becoming a school teacher. Amelia greets you with respect and affection, thankful for the chance you give her to continue pursuing her goals.

"Adoption" of this needy girl under PLAN provides a monthly cash grant, clothing, supplies, medical and dental clinic, and the guidance of our social workers, among other programs and facilities. Because PLAN means sharing, your generosity benefits the entire family, who all join young Amelia in warmest gratitude for your gift of help and hope.

MORE ON REVENUE SHARING

The Village Clerk, Marilyn Sterbenz, attended a special meeting on Revenue Sharing and found some answers that may solve the problem concerning the Board's issuing of revenue fund to the library. The eligibility of the Library for such funds was questioned by the Board.

Sterbenz was able to supply the board with some answers at last Monday's meeting. She said, "We cannot use revenue sharing funds on retired debts that have been incurred before January 1, 1972. That particular phase of contribution to the library is out, but the Board could enter into a contractual agreement with the library, providing the library spelled out the exact use for the funds in the agreement.

Mayor Toft recommended a letter be sent to the library making them aware that negotiations between the Village Board and Library will be underway to work out arrangements for such a contractual agreement.

CLC GRADUATES OFFERED EMPLOYMENT

Employment opportunities for College of Lake County graduates look very good this spring, according to Sam Mazman, the school's Director of Placement. He said that the Placement Office, which acts as a free employment agency for CLC students and alumni, has been receiving job listings almost daily. "These are jobs with growth potential being offered by local businesses. The salary range is $7,200 to $9,000," Mazman said.

Students nearing graduation are urged to begin establishing a placement file.

Job interviews will be conducted in March, April and early May. Placement files will be released only to those prospective employers authorized by the student. Students may update their records at any time, even after graduation.

He is a member of the Chicago Chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute and of the Lake County and Fox River Valley Councils of Insured Savings and Loans Associations.

SELF-SCHEDULING - A REALITY

Student self-scheduling at the Antioch Community High School has finally become a reality after it was given unanimous approval by the teachers. This is one of the few new projects that has been able to draw one hundred percent support. The teachers were introduced to self-scheduling at an in-service program that was held last Friday, January 26th. This Friday the program was introduced to the student body, and self-scheduling is now underway.

Student self imposed scheduling will allow the students to choose their own courses, teachers, and times. During the next two weeks the students will choose what courses they would like to take next semester and will submit these courses, to Mr. Kurek, who is in charge of the program. Mr. Kurek will then be able to calculate the course and staff needs of next semester and draw up a master plan accordingly.

During the introduction to self-scheduling on Friday, teachers from the various departments gave a presentation on their educational programs, and outlined what the courses are destined to accomplish. Counselors will also be readily available to help the students draw up their course schedules.

Student self-scheduling is thought to have many advantages.

Mr. Kurek said, "It will help the student get involved in the decisions pertaining to his educational life and being involved he learns to resolve conflicts on a basis of a priority system."

It is also thought that this new system will bring the students and the teachers together. It is hoped that it will eliminate some of the costly schedule conflicts in the fall.

At other schools, teachers have objected to self-scheduling, because they are afraid that students will not pick them and that scheduling will become a mere popularity contest. This was not the case in Antioch.

To see that the system runs smoothly when it takes place a week before classes next fall, 20 students have been selected from each class to act as student consultants. These students will meet with Mr. Kurek for several sessions after school to get well acquainted with the new system. The students will be assigned 20 students a piece to pass on what they have learned. It is hoped that by next fall everyone concerned will be well versed in the area of student scheduling and that everything will run smoothly.

REP PIERCE - ELIMINATE ELECTION OF UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS TRUSTEES

Rep. Daniel M. Pierce, D-Highland Park, announced Monday (1-29-73) that he will introduce legislation Tuesday to eliminate election of University of Illinois Trustees.

Pierce's proposal would give the Governor the power to appoint UI board members.

"In each General Election," Pierce said, "voters demonstrate their lack of interest in selecting University of Illinois trustees."

"UI trustees are currently the only non-appointed trustees in our system of state universities. We can shorten our already long Illinois ballot by allowing the Governor to appoint members of the UI board."

The governor's nine appointees, who would be named in sets of three for staggered six-year terms, would be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction would continue to serve as an ex officio trustee. But the Governor, currently an ex officio trustee, would be dropped from the board under Pierce's proposal.

The new legislation stipulates that not more than five of the nine trustees can be of the same political party.

The Governor's first three appointments would be made at the end of the terms of current trustees elected in 1968.

Commenting on his package of two bills (the second of which removes references to UI trustees from the Election Code), Pierce said:

"The office of UI trustee is a very important one, but its functions are not visible to the average voter. It's almost impossible for a trustee candidate to wage an issue-oriented campaign, leaving voters with little more information about the candidates than their political affiliation."

"It makes more sense to let the Governor appoint trustees whose qualifications he has studied, hopefully with input from the University community."

DRAWING WITH PASTELS. Pastels are colored powders compressed into stick form, like chalks. They come in several hundred different shades, tints and tones of all colors. They are thick or thin, rounded or square sticks and range from very soft to semi-soft, so buy small sets of all brands to find out what you like best. Generally the soft ones are best for large smooth areas and the harder ones for sharp line detail. Though you could get along using a small 24 color set, it is better to have several different pinks rather than to mix bright red with a lot of white. A 100 color set would be preferred as a starter set. You can add to or replace them individually as you need.

The paper used should have a tooth or crevices such as charcoal paper. Preferred is the velour paper, which has a marvelous velvety finish which holds the pastels well. In all cases, tinted papers are best, so choose a soft color that goes well with what your picture will be.

You will also need stumps which are soft paper rolled cigar shaped, having points on both ends, or tortillions, which have a point only at one end. You use these for rubbing in tight places where your fingers won't fit.

Now for procedures. You can do a pastel of any subject be it portrait, landscape, still life or whatever. Never start the picture with anything but the pastels, as pencils, charcoal or ink would bleed through. So start with light lines using the color closest to what you want for each area. Sometimes you might lay areas in mass using the broadsides of the sticks as for sky or other large areas. You can work directly laying the colors on without rubbing. You can stroke different colors into each other, crosshatch, or lay the colors on pure with strokes or dots as in pointillism, for a visual mixture. Or you can rub the colors smoothly into each other. If you use your fingers for rubbing, be sure to have washed your hands well beforehand, as your body grease will prevent the colors from adhering properly. You cannot erase pastels. So avoid errors by working slowly, light to dark. You can tap off excess color from the back of the paper or use a stiff brush to dust off the color. This raises the nap of the paper so putting more color on the error is possible.

When the picture is just about finished, spray it with PASTEL fixative only, following the directions on the spray can. then put in your final details and touch ups and spray it all again. Pastels should be framed with a heavy mat and under glass. The heavy mat keeps the picture from rubbing on and clouding the glass. Pastels retain their colors, never fading.

Happy pastels

Here are some questions often asked of physicians and nutritionists — things that people wonder about concerning their food:

- Q. Is the nutritional value of milk harmed by heating it? We like warm milk before going to bed.
A. If you do not scald the milk its nutritive value will not be affected. Some people prefer to first pour milk into a glass, then place the glass in a pan of warm water to avoid overheating.

"BUD" HOLTZ CANDIDATE FOR ASSESSOR ANTIOCH TOWNSHIP

R. G. "Bud" Holtz, a resident of Antioch for the past 40 years, has announced his Candidacy for Antioch township Assessor at the Election to be held on Tuesday, April 3rd.

Mr. Holtz says he was urged to seek the position of Assessor by many of his long time friends and business associates. He states that, especially in this day of continuous spiraling of taxes, someone with compassion for the aged, and also struggling younger couples, should be in this position to use honest to goodness common sense.

Bud (as he is known to his many friends) also says, "We all realize that we must have taxes, but I consider it of paramount importance that someone is in this position who will make a sincere effort to see that taxes are equally spread and assessed, and that discretion is used in applying the law fairly to all."

Mr. Holtz emphasizes also that he is running as an independent and is not part of any other group or party slate of candidates.

Bud says, "The gentlemen running on the citizen's ticket and on the Independent ticket are fine men and most of them old friends of mine. I am running for office because I want to do a good and fair job, and because I have the time and understanding to do that job."

PLAZA SUITE OPENS FEBRUARY 10

Curtain time on Saturday evening, February 10 will see a "First Nighter" crowd at the PM & L Theatre, 877 Main Street, Antioch. True to theatre tradition some people will never miss an Opening Night performance. However PLAZA SUITE, the Neil Simon comedy in 3 acts, is scheduled for additional performances on Friday and Saturday evenings, February 16, 17, 23, and 24. Seating is limited in the intimate little theatre so to avoid disappointment please call 395-9702 for ticket information or reservation.

The play covers a "few hours" in the lives of three different occupants of a suite at the Plaza Hotel in New York City. A new approach being used here at PM & L is a different cast for each act. The Broadway show and feature length movie utilized the same actor in all 3 acts. "The Idea behind PM & L's production is to give more acting opportunity to very capable members of our community", states Tony Aird, the director. In this way we more than double the cast. We have a cast of 6 men and 5 women."

Sam and Karen Nash of Act 1 are portrayed by Fred Holbert and Donna Mascari. Lyn Zaehler is Miss McCormick, Sam's secretary. Dennis Macaluso is the bell-hop and Ed Grimes the waiter in both Act 1 and Act-2. Hollywood producer Jesse Kiplinger is portrayed by Don Beveroth in Act 2 as he tries to re-ignite a friendship with an old flame, Muriel Tate played by Pam Hill. The final act finds Mom and Dad Hubley trying to lure their daughter out of a locked bathroom to marry her waiting groom. The long suffering parents are portrayed by Nancy J. Bell and Tom Hausman. Penny Anderson and Dave Oelerich are the Possible Newly-weds.

The entire show is meant to amuse and entertain so make plans now to join us for a laugh filled evening.

LINCOLN NEVER CELEBRATED HIS OWN BIRTHDAY

The most important historical events in Illinois during February for more than half a century have been the observances of Abraham Lincoln's birthday. These observances, in the forms of banquets, pilgrimages, and special programs and displays have increased in number and attendance year after year. But Lincoln himself never observed his birthday, nor, as far as historians have learned, did he ever receive a birthday present.

The most authoritative study of Lincoln's activities is the three volume work titled "Lincoln Day by Day, a Chronology, 1809-1865," edited by Earl Schenck Miers and published in 1960 by the Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission. It is a revised version of earlier works compiled by Lincoln scholars Paul M. Angle, Harry E. Pratt, and Benjamin P. Thomas. The revision merely added newly discovered material. A search through "Day by Day" and other publications, manuscripts and newspapers in the Illinois State Historical Library reveals all that historians know about Lincoln's birthdays.

In response to a request for a biographical sketch, Lincoln wrote in June, 1860, "I was born Feb. 12, 1809 in then Hardin County Kentucky, at a point within the now recently formed County of Larue, a mile, or a mile and a half from where Hodginsville now is." Although this is his only mention of the date the records show what he was doing on most of his birthdays.

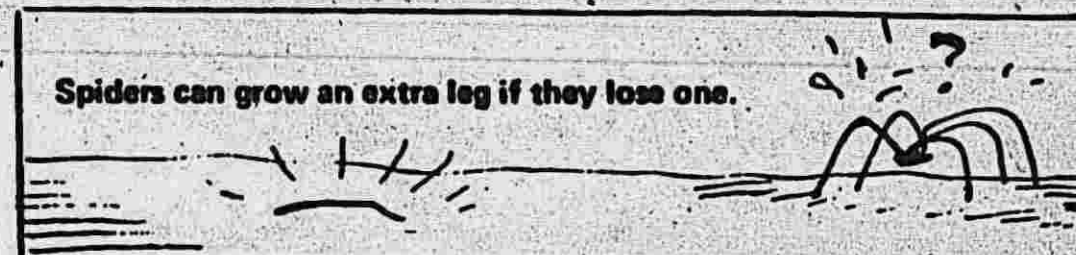

During the period from 1834 to 1842 when he was a Sangamon County representative, Lincoln spent the day attending sessions of the Illinois General Assembly. Between then and 1860 (when he was elected President) his birthdays were spent either in court or at his office. This routine was interrupted by his term in the Thirtieth Congress (1847-49) when he attended the sessions on his birthday. Incidentally, "Day by Day" reports that on February 12, 1844 he "buys pr. socks for Robt., age 6 mo., for 13 cents and on that date in 1851 he "spends 7 cents for lb. nails." On Feb. 12, 1853 the Illinois state senate voted to change the county seat of Logan County from Mt. Pulaski to Lincoln's namesake town - the house had passed the measure the previous day. That was as close as he ever came to receiving a birthday present.

Lincoln's busiest birthday was undoubtedly his fifty-second - Feb. 12, 1861. It was also probably his most enjoyable. He had left Springfield the

SWEET ADELINES ANNUAL SHOW FEATURES EVENING OF SONG

Men on the moon? Of course. But a woman on Venus?!? According to Kenosha's Sweet Adelines, not only is it likely, but will definitely occur! Though it may seem an improbable mission, blast-off time to put the first woman on Venus is 8:15 p.m., Saturday, February 10. St. Joseph's High School Auditorium is the launch site and those participating in this historic event are the Kenosha Chorus, the Rarities, 1970 International Queens of Harmony, Saturday's Heroes, a new men's quartet composed of former members of championship quartets, and two Kenosha based quartets, The Association and The Cleff Hangers.

Kenosha Chapter's annual show, this year titled "Mission: Improbable", will feature Kay Paulsen and Robert Smith.

An enjoyable evening of song is guaranteed for all who attend. Tickets are $2.50, and available at the door or from any chorus member, and also at Mayer Drugs downtown.

BUS LOADING AT ENTRANCE A FIRST FOR FLOWER SHOW

Buses will be able to load and unload their passengers in the mallway at McCormick Place, adjacent to the entrance to the Flower Show, for the first time, it was announced today by Robert P. Wintz, Flower Show Manager. "In past years," Wintz said, "buses have been required to unload their passengers in the parking lots, which often meant long, uncomfortable walks to visit the Flower Show. Now that they may drive directly to the Show entrance, we expect that hundreds of chartered buses visiting the seven acres of floral extravaganzas will attract additional visitors from a four state area." Shuttle bus service from the parking lot directly to the entrance of the Show will also be available for those who come by car.

The 1973 Chicago Flower and Garden Show will be in McCormick Place from March 24th through April 1st. This will be the World's largest indoor Flower Show, occupying over 300,000 square feet of Maxwell Hall.

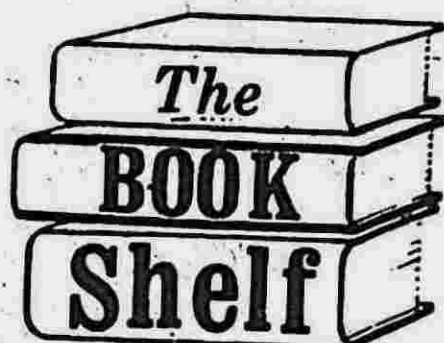

This year the emphasis in garden areas will be placed on a larger number of smaller gardens - gardens which will provide ideas for the average home owner and apartment dwellers in planning their own growing activities. In the past, large gardens have been spectacular, but were difficult to relate to the small city garden area. There will be sections especially for those residing in congested neighborhoods and apartments. Ideas may be gleaned from these for stoop plantings, window boxes, and even small vegetable patches.

Since walking through seven acres of garden grandeur may become quite tiring, the 1973 Flower Show has designed four ethnic garden restaurants, built in floral settings, to provide the opportunity for relaxation and refreshment while still enjoying the beauty of the floral surroundings. Show management is making every effort to make it as convenient and relaxing as possible to come to the Flower Show, as well as providing the types of garden and activities Chicagoland has been asking for.

IN THE SAVINGS AND LOAN PLAZA

BITS AND PIECES

By: Taffy Engelhardt

Friday of last week was quite confused. The freshman, sophomores and juniors had a special assembly in which they were explained the new system of Self Imposed Scheduling. In short, this is where you are allowed to choose the class, hour and teacher for each subject you have. This is the first time they have been given this opportunity. It is still under observation but it could prove to be quite efficient. The seniors were measured for the fitting of caps and gowns. It was chaos with over 300 people in the commons at one time.

The basketball Sequoits were disappointed with a defeat last weekend. The team was down and the Scouts took advantage of it and won with an 8-point advantage. But Round Lake was defeated by Grant. Grant finally did something worthwhile!! We're all anxious to beat the Panthers this weekend and prove our strength.

The wrestlers are still as strong as ever and were again victorious last weekend. The team scores were: Sequoits 51, Round Lake 8, on Friday and Sequoits 50 to Barrington's 9 on Saturday.

The Sophomore Basketball team received a dozen roses and a sympathy card at Thursday practice that was signed by the Lake Forest Scouts saying they regretted the Sequoit's Loss that would occur on Friday. I can imagine how grateful they were.

The G.A.A. Junior-Senior Slumber Party was on Saturday night. As usual, everyone had a good time but no one got any sleep. There were approximately 25-30 girls there. The seniors creamed the juniors in a basketball game. The treasure hunt lasted until about 1:00 a.m. Mrs. Stewart knocked out early but everyone else got to bed at about 5 or 6 a.m. Don't ask me why it's called a slumber party—hardly any one sleeps!

EXECUTIVE BOARD PLANS REMAINDER OF STUDENT COUNCIL CALENDAR

On Wednesday, January 24 the Executive Board of the Student Council met at the home of Mr. Harrison Brown to discuss Council activities for the remainder of the year. Mr. Brown is the former Student Council Advisor and often times assists the Council when decisions are to be made.

The meeting began by discussing those activities that occur annually as part of Student Council duties. A treasury balance was given at approximately $400.00. The date scheduled for the annual Student Council Week was the week prior to Spring Vacation. The election of new officers will be held on the Tuesday following return from vacation.

The Spring Dance will be held early in April and will be more informal than in past years. Council does not want to risk a great deal of money on this venture as it has done in the past.

One new item brought before the Board was the creation of an annual get-together evening with the Student Council members and the Staff. It was suggested an informal mixer with appropriate music and refreshments be used to increase rapport between Staff and students and also to thank the Staff for their hard work and co-operation.

ANTIOCH HOSTS DISTRICT A-1 WRESTLING TOURNAMENT

For the first time in the eleven years of wrestling at Antioch, the high school will be host for the wrestling tournament. In the past years, we've had to go to Waukegan and other schools.

Our district has six other schools in it. They are North Chicago, Waukegan, Zion, Grayslake, Round Lake, and Warren. Our toughest competitor is North Chicago, whom we didn't do so good against in the Christmas Tournament.

The District Tournament works this way. All the schools in our district come and we have matches against them. Whoever places first or second in the District Tournament goes on to the Sectionals. They, again, have matches against the first and second place squads of the other districts. Then the first and second place winners, go to State Tournaments. This is really an achievement to go downstate.

The Antioch Wrestlers have the best chance to go to the sectionals: Tom Rayniak, Keith Larsen, John Roberts, John Thain, and Steve Shaffer.

The Antioch Wrestling Squad has improved over the years that Antioch has had a team. In 1971, Larry Schaffer went downstate, and in 1972, Cliff Bode went also.

OUR SEQUOITS ARE ROAMING

Many moons ago the Indians who once walked along nearby streams and local woods were supposedly called Sequoits. The braves often hunted in groups. The average hunting party was usually five or six experienced hunters, ready for anything. Continuously they exposed themselves to danger from large carnivorous game. In this case, they would send for more braves to over power and destroy the animal. Sometimes they would run into scouts from the United States Army. The Sequoits habitually over powered the scouts and usually stomped all over them. While on these hunting trips, there was one thing that the Indians feared most. Hundreds of years ago, wild cats roamed these hills around us. Some called them bobcats, some even called them "Panthers".

Little did these fearless Sequoits of yesteryear know, a high school would be built where their fires once burned, and the athletic division would be named after them. Even though they were centuries apart, our basketball team and the Sequoit Indians have much in common.

Usually once, and sometimes twice, a week, the Antioch Sequoits are in search of prey which they intend to destroy with five strong braves and a "Chief" who has many feathers in his bonnet. In some cases, they get into trouble which they cannot back away from. Just like the original Sequoits, the Antioch Sequoits call on experienced braves to take over and destroy the enemy.

Last weekend our brave Sequoits had some difficulty with the Lake Forest Scouts. They didn't overpower them as usual. Next week a hunting trip is planned, and there is word that a group of Panthers is invading the area. Although the Sequoits of yesteryear were fearful of Panthers, the modern Antioch Sequoits have devised a new strategy.

The Panthers aren't as strong as they were, and after next weekend, the Sequoits will be roaming the area happily in search of a foe more difficult to conquer than pussycats!!!

GAA TALKS

There was a meeting on January 31 consisting of the GAA officers and all-stars. The fact that basketball teams are having to forfeit was discussed. It seems that there is an overall lack of participation, especially in the junior class.

Even though the banquet isn't until April 14 it was brought up and discussed. There are a lot of problems that need to be worked out. Last year there wasn't a clean-up committee and everything in general was quite a bit rushed. This year we are hoping to avoid any mix-ups and we don't want a senior skit like last year's.

CLC ACCEPTING FINANCIAL AID APPLICATIONS

The College of Lake County is accepting financial aid applications from students wishing to receive aid for the school year beginning fall, 1973. These applications will be processed June 1. Any received after that date will be considered only as long as funds remain available, according to Sam Mazman, Director of Financial aids at the school.

Mazman is encouraging everyone planning to attend CLC next year to apply for aid. "Many students don't apply because they think their parents earn too much money to allow them to qualify. They usually fail to realize that their working mother's earnings are not included as income for aid purposes. Decisions are based on many factors including unusual family expenses or circumstances. These may be such things as high medical bills or caring for an elderly person, he said.

High School Juniors and Seniors Invited to Compete for Scholarships and Achievement Awards

Student leaders participate in seminar conducted by publishers of Who's Who Among American High School Students in Northfield, Ill. to create questions for firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers".

(NORTHFIELD, ILL.) Who's Who Among American High School Students, the nation's largest student award publication is now accepting applications from junior and senior class high school students interested in competing for honorary recognition awards and scholarship grants of $500.00 to $1,000.00. Eleventh and twelfth grade students should forward their applications stating name, address, high school, approximate grade point average and activities, to The Merit Selection Committee, Who's Who Among American High School Students, 540 Frontage Road, Northfield, Ill. 60093 within the next 30 days. Qualified students will have their biographies published in Who's Who and will be eligible for scholarship awards to the college or university of their choice.

The students who receive award recognition from Who's Who may also participate in the publication's annual "Survey of High Achievers", later in the academic year. "It is our conviction that the attitudes and opinions of these student leaders are as important and worthwhile as their academic achievements", states Paul C. Krouse, Who's Who publisher. Questions for the survey are created by a group of honor students during a seminar held in Chicago each spring. The resulting survey is then sent to all students scheduled to appear in the publication and their responses are tabulated and distributed to key government leaders, educators, research agencies, universities and the press.

RUSSELL FAHRNER COMPLETES JOHNSON OUTBOARD SCHOOL

Russell J. Fahrner, Smith Marine, Antioch, Illinois, recently completed the two-week factory service school program at the Johnson Outboards complex in Waukegan, Illinois.

He was part of a class, drawn from Johnson dealerships throughout the world, which explored the finer points of the famous Sea-Horse line of outboard motors.

Not all of the students' classwork was devoted to theory, however. Included in the curriculum was Johnson's famous "trouble-shooting" course, with expert instruction on how to quickly diagnose and repair outboard problems.

Johnson's service school, staffed by a faculty of 15 experienced outboard "doctors," is the largest and most modern of its kind in the world.

students received aid in varying amounts up to $1500. According to Mazman, some of the money was assigned to meet living expenses. He said that even students living at home can qualify for living expenses. "A CLC student's living expenses are considered to be equal to those of a student living in a dormitory at a four year university. In fact, CLC students could have higher expenses. This is because dorm students can walk to classes and don't have the automobile and transportation expenses that CLC students do," Mazman said.

Funds are available in the form of grants, scholarships, loans, and on-campus employment. The amount distributed to CLC students during 1972 was $395,000.

WENDY JENSEN NAMED OUTSTANDING ATHLETE

Wendy P. Jensen, 477 First Street, Antioch, will appear in the 1973 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America." Miss Jensen, a junior at North Central College, was selected for the honor as a result of her participation in women's inter-collegiate sports at the liberal arts college.

Miss Jensen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jensen. She is a 1970 graduate of Antioch Community High School, and is majoring in physical education. Miss Jensen has proved to be an outstanding player in both women's inter-collegiate volleyball and basketball.

Announcement of her selection was made by the board of advisors of "Outstanding College Athletes of America," an annual awards volume published to honor America's finest college athletes. Coaches and athletic directors from individual colleges and universities across the nation nominated the winning athletes on the basis of their displayed abilities, not only in athletics but also in community service and campus activities. Other criteria for selection included strength of character, leadership both on and off the playing field, and scholarship.

FREDERICK WALPOLE RECEIVES DISTINGUISHED GRADE MARK

Frederick C. Walpole of 513 Garys Drive, Antioch was one of 3,312 students at Purdue University to achieve a distinguished student rank during the first semester. Fred is majoring in science.

These students represented the top 17.24 per cent of the 19,207 undergraduates on the West Lafayette campus.

The list released by Registrar Nelson M. Parkhurst included 831 students with straight A records in their semester's work toward bachelor's or associate (two year) degrees. This number represented slightly more than 4.32 per cent of the undergraduate student body.

Out of the total number of distinguished students, 29 were from foreign countries, nine of whom achieved straight A averages for the first semester.

To qualify for distinguished rating, a student must have a grade index of at least 5.5 (B plus) out of a possible 6.0 (A) in at least 14 hours of academic credit hours and have no grade below C (4 points).

TOASTMASTERS GRADUATE

18 young people completed the annual public speaking and leadership training course sponsored by the Libertyville Toastmasters International Club, according to Lake County 4-H Adviser, Bill Messerschmidt. This Youth Leadership Program is offered to any youngster in eighth grade or above whether or not they are enrolled in 4-H. And it is cited as one of the most valuable contributions to the overall 4-H club program because it aids the high school age members in developing into confident speakers and mature adults. If there are enough youngsters interested, another eight week course will be offered this spring. Interested youngsters should contact the Lake County Cooperative Extension Service at 223-5844.

There is no cost to enroll and members cooperate in a relaxed atmosphere to help each other learn to communicate more effectively. The course begins with a basic "ice breaker" speech consisting of a brief life history of the speaker. An enjoyable weekly event in the course involves "table topics".

Graduation took place in mid-January. Antioch graduates were: Rosline Scheske, Jean Schoelzel, and Jeff Schoelzel. Kevin Higginson and Tim Will from Lake Villa also received diplomas.

Boys and girls can join up in Junior Toastmasters or other 4-H programs regardless of race, creed, or national origin. Contact the Lake County Cooperative Extension Service for more information.

A trip for a spaghetti dinner at Weasel's restaurant ended up in a fast trip via the Rescue Squad to Victory Memorial Hospital for Carl Beitzel Sunday evening. Carl was taking advantage of the mild weather and using his motorcycle instead of the car, when he lost control of the bike on some loose gravel on Hwy 173 near Gifford's Hill resulting in a broken leg and a stay at the hospital. Get well soon, Carl.

Pat and George Hucker along with their son Kurt journeyed to Arkansas this past weekend to visit George's parents, Ted and Marie. It must have been a delicious dinner as there wasn't a morsel left, right down to the six home made pies Pat had prepared. It was a very enjoyable day, as some relatives hadn't seen one another in a very long time.

"TORK" TALKS

by: Tork Torkelson

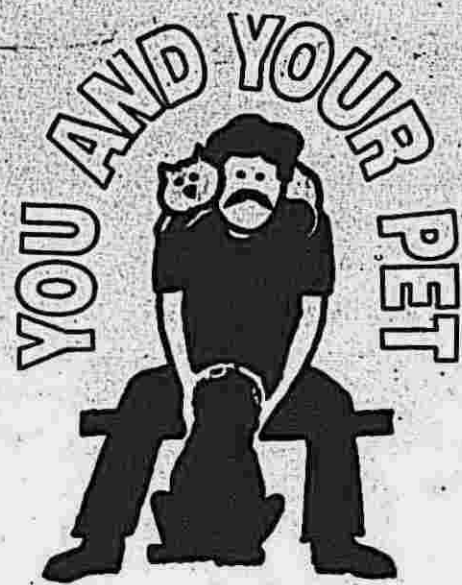

TORK TALKS ON MAINTENANCE

What's so important about maintaining a car? If just the car were at stake, that would be enough reason or concern. But more than the car's at stake. Namely: (1) Possibly your life (2) Satisfaction from dependable transportation, (3) Maybe your livelihood, if car is used for work, (4) Your pocketbook and (5) The return on your car investment: its resale value.

If parts and components aren't maintained or replaced when necessary, they not only can destroy themselves, but do more extensive mechanical damage.

The first rule of good maintenance is to observe all the instructions laid out in the owner's manual. Abide by it.

PROTECT YOUR DOG FROM HEPATITIS

Dogs of all ages are susceptible to infectious hepatitis - a disease every dog owner should protect his animal against.

Because approximately 80 percent of all dogs over one year of age are exposed to hepatitis, vaccination against the disease is usually considered a must.

Hepatitis is caused by a virus which infects the kidneys and is eliminated in the urine even after the animal has recovered.

Hepatitis symptoms may vary in severity. But they usually include a fever of at least 104 degrees fahrenheit.

As the infection progresses, the dog becomes listless, shows lack of appetite, develops an extreme thirst and has a watery discharge from his eyes. In addition, his throat, especially his tonsils, become swollen.

Statistics indicate that the mortality rate for dogs with this disease is very high. Those dogs that recover usually eat well, but are slow to regain lost weight.

For these reasons, you should consult your family veterinarian immediately upon recognizing the symptoms and get the appropriate medication administered to the puppy as early as possible.

Infectious hepatitis is a disease that usually affects young puppies, although it can strike dogs of any age.

This virus disease is not airborne and it is not likely that your puppy will contract hepatitis in this manner.

The hepatitis virus attacks a puppy when he comes in direct contact with the saliva or urine of infected animals. It settles in the kidney and is eliminated, if given proper medication, in your pup's urine.

The hepatitis virus may also be passed on to a pup in an indirect way. Objects such as wooden articles or pieces of clothing may harbor canine hepatitis virus that may be transmitted to others.

Because urine from recovered animals contains hepatitis virus, it is a major factor

Christian Science Churches

In the Bible we learn that Spirit is another name for God. This will be explored Sunday at Churches of Christ, Scientist, in the Bible Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit".

In Romans 8 we read "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God".

Commentary from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy includes this explanation: "Man as the offspring of God, as the idea of Spirit, is the immortal evidence that Spirit is harmonious and man eternal".

Services begin at 11 A.M. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, BEACON HILL, Rte 173 and Harden, Antioch, Illinois. The public is always invited.

in the spread of the disease.

The urine of an infected animal is dangerous for some time following recovery. Pet owners should keep this in mind when taking their pets out for their daily exercise and elimination.

A good vaccination program against infectious hepatitis usually consists of two doses for pups under three months of age. The first dose is to be given after weaning and the second dose two to three weeks later.

Dogs older than three months should respond to a single dose inoculation.

Life-long prevention of hepatitis for your pup can be maintained with an annual vaccination from your veterinarian.

LAKE COUNTY LAKERS TO FOLD - A POSSIBILITY

Grand Rapids and Flint continue to play their "cat-and-mouse" game in the East Division of the Continental Basketball Association while Lake County holds a 2½ game cushion in the West Division with only four games remaining in the regular season.

In fact, the Waukegan franchise could clinch at least a share of the No. 1 spot in the West with a victory over Decatur Sunday. The Lakers currently are the hottest team in the CBA, winning six of their last seven games. And they boast three of the league's top scorers in Joe Franklin, Len Chappell and Clarence Sherrod. Not bad for a club that figures to fold after the 1972-73 campaign.

Lake County strengthened its grip on first place in the East last Saturday by blitzing Rockford 156-130. But only 65 people showed up to see it. That's right, only 65.

"We probably won't be back next season," said Lake County owner Peter Collins. "I'm just sick about our attendance. And I can't understand why we can't draw."

One thing is for sure. Pro basketball is struggling to survive in Illinois at the minor league level. However, while the Lake County franchise is losing money at the gate, it is certainly thriving on the court.

FORT SHERIDAN BECOMES NEW HEAD QUARTERS

The Department of the Army announced this month that the US Army Recruiting Command (USAREC) Headquarters will move from Hampton Roads area of Virginia to Fort Sheridan, Illinois, near Chicago. The Headquarter relocation is one of a series of major actions to modernize, reorient, and streamline the Army's organization within the Continental United States. The move will begin in June 1973 and be completed by mid-July.

The relocation will provide the Headquarters a more adequate physical plant and locate it nearer the geographic center of its area of responsibility. USAREC operates 1,630 recruiting stations, 74 Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Stations, and 69 field headquarters units located throughout the Continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, and Puerto Rico.

The movement of the Headquarters to Fort Sheridan will not involve a change of mission or functions. Military and civilian personnel authorizations at the time of the move will not be affected. All career and career-conditional civilian employees may retain their present positions in the new location. The local office of the Civil Service Commission, State Employment Service office, and local business firms will be asked to assist in locating employment for those civilian employees who elect not to be relocated and need assistance.

The Headquarters of the US Army Recruiting Command has been located in Hampton Roads since the Command was organized in October 1964. It currently has 240 military and 250 civilian personnel assigned, who work in facilities in both Hampton and Newport News. Since the inception of the Volunteer Army concept in 1970, USAREC has dramatically increased its size and magnitude of activities in an effort to obtain the necessary enlistments to support a totally volunteer Army. The Headquarters is commanded by Major General John Q. Henion.

previous morning enroute to Washington to assume the presidency and had stayed overnight at the Bates House in Indianapolis. On the morning of the twelfth he had breakfast at the Indiana governor's mansion and then went to the capitol to greet members of the legislature. Back at his hotel he addressed a crowd that had gathered there, and welcomed Mrs. Lincoln and their sons who had arrived on a later train.

At about 11 a.m. the party boarded a train for Cincinnati, and Lincoln made brief rear platform speeches at stops in five Indiana towns enroute. A huge and enthusiastic crowd greeted him in Cincinnati and he rode in a two-hour parade to the Burnet House where he addressed the crowd, attended a public reception in the dining room, and later spoke to another large audience from the hotel balcony.

On his four birthdays in Washington Lincoln spent most of his time at his White House desk. On Feb. 12, 1862 his son Willie was sick with typhoid fever and the President was with him much of the day - the boy died on Feb. 20. On Feb. 12, 1864 Lincoln held a cabinet meeting at which "little of particular importance" happened. His last birthday, February 12, 1865, was one of business as usual. The previous evening he attended a reception which Mrs. Lincoln held but there was no mention that it had anything to do with his birthday.

CLC WELTER WRESTLING

Some coaches prefer to address an athlete by his last name.

If Dick Frankenberger likes to get his College of Lake County wrestlers' attention in that manner, he has to make an exception this season, especially this semester. You see, if he called "Hey Welter!", three of his matmen would answer him.

The Welter name is very well known in wrestling circles throughout the state. And in the Skyway Conference that name means trouble to those who have to go head-to-head with the likes of Jim, Casey and John. The latter, a transfer student, just became eligible this semester.

It was only natural that these three became wrestlers - it's a family tradition. Jim, who's trying to repeat his national championship performance of two years ago, explained how this magnetism for the mats came about:

"I guess just the fact that my brother, Steve, started it off and he was outstanding (two state titles and a second as a sophomore). Nobody was really tall enough or good enough to be a basketball player (at Grant High School), but we were sports-minded so we went out for wrestling."

Jim and John were standouts in the prep state finals with runner-up honors in their respective weights. Together with Casey, a freshman, they are trying to bring even more glory to the Welter clan.

After staying out a year to earn money for college, Jim's back, more determined than ever to regain his title touch. Besides getting his body in shape for the grueling tests ahead, which is tough enough according to Jim, he's been searching for his old knack of "moving without thinking about what I'm doing."

"He was a pretty consistent winner all year," recalled Frankenberger of Jim's big season as a 126 pounder. "The kid he beat in the finals of the nationals was the same one he lost to twice during the season - Steve Almade of Triton (also of the Skyway) in the dual meet and the conference meet."

Jim might have repeated as national champ last year if he had had the funds. But coming from a family of 12 (six boys and four girls) whose father has been ill, it is easy to see why Jim had to shoulder the financial load of his education.

"He's always worked as well as went to school," his coach pointed out, "in high school as well as college. In fact, when he won the nationals, he worked 20 hours a week, getting up about 3 a.m. and working until 8 a.m. and also going to school and wrestling."

"He's been away from it a year, but he's coming on," said Frankenberger. "He's a winner. There's no question about it."

The Welters will be on their home "turf" on Saturday, February 10, when the Skyway holds its league championships at Lake County. This will be a good warmup for the Region IV meet on Friday and Saturday, February 16-17, in Moline. The first big step toward a national crown.

WALTER J. SCHILLER-OWNER

With a Stern Eye

Unfortunately the newspaper that carried the story has joined the re-cycling system so I don't have it exactly in front of me - but a couple of weeks ago the local press carried a warning account of an address given to the Lake County Township Officials. It was the sort of speech that makes hackles rise in that organization. 'Watch out for the League of Women Voters', warned the speaker, 'because they are out to dismantle township government.' The speaker, it should be pointed out, was Lee Ahlswede, Editor of the Illinois County and Township Officials magazine.

Snug at my own fireside when I read the account, I could only murmur 'Amen!' It is perfectly understandable that the Township Officials should squirm to hear how dispensable their jobs are; hardly anyone likes to be told they are making a career out of busy work - but the conclusion arrived at by the League of Women Voters, happens to agree with one I arrived at a number of years ago.

It is also worth noting that Mr. Ahlswede also has reason to fear the demise of Township government. That pyramidal structure, 'closest to the people', 'grass-roots' as all get out, provides the list of captive subscribers to his magazine, and there never was a duller one. I don't refer to the list but to the magazine. Truly tedious!

Having been aroused by Mr. Ahlswede to fight on the last rampart to preserve Township government, the local officials were then introduced to Dr. A. C. Smedley of the Frank Thornber Company. Dr. Smedley is a very warm, personable gentleman and long-time friend of most of those in his audience that night. The Thornber Company too, has a keen interest in the survival of Township government because they provide a very large percentage of the Election services used by the Clerks. They print legal forms and are a constantly available resource for consultation re Election Law. Perhaps no one - not even the State's Attorney - knows as much about Election Law as Dr. Smedley. As a result the Township Clerks and the Village Clerks and the City Clerks - and many many County Clerks buy a bill of goods from Dr. Smedley each Election year.

Again I'm sorry not to have the original newspaper article, but the gist of Dr. Smedley's remarks as I recall them, were: "You guys and gals deserve a raise. Get in there and see that it's forthcoming. And do it now!" I assume this pep-talk regarding salary increases, stemmed from the reminder that the Election was approaching for Township officials (April 3rd) and that once the new term begins, no pay raises will be permitted by law. Or perhaps the propaganda about how the League of Women Voters was about to put them all out or business fell on fertile ground. Anyway, if one can believe the reporter who was present, the air fairly vibrated with the sounds of public officials smacking their lips over the public trough.

Let us examine for a moment the need for this expensive, self-serving pyramid of public servants. The Supervisor (of General Assistance) is the welfare officer of his township; he is also head of his Town Board. The Town Clerk, who no longer has a vote, keeps records and conducts the biennial elections. The four (formerly three) Auditors check multiplication and addition on Township bills, and give formal approval for their payment. The Assessor assesses local real estate and turns his books in to the County for extension, billing and collection. The Highway Commissioner looks after whatever Township Roads may exist in his township - and that differs widely.

To work backwards: the County Highway Department

(and I've written on this before) could do the job for considerably less and without duplicating expensive equipment in each of the 18 townships. The County's supervisor of Assessments could, with a little local assist, do the entire job. The Auditors are clearly expendable if the rest of the pyramid crumbles. And by the same token there would be no further need of the expensive biennial elections. The Supervisor is elected, not by qualifying exam or training, but by getting a majority of votes cast; his work might better be done by a trained Social Worker, out of the County's Department of Health.

Messrs. Ahlswede and Smedley are only two of the many parasites who live, like pilot fish, off the fortunes of the big fish - the Township turtle. Their interest in revving up the local organization is obvious. But what keeps the rest of us sitting on our hands as the money continues to pour out that unwatched corner of our tax pocket?

Let's hear it for the League who has no ax to grind....

PHEASANT HUNTERS FARE WELL AT PUBLIC AREAS

Pheasant hunters took a record 39,467 ringnecks from the seven state-managed public put-and-take areas in Illinois during the 1972 season.

"A total of 26,340 hunters made use of the seven areas during the permit season," said Jim Lockart, supervisor of the Division of Wildlife Resources in the Illinois Department of Conservation. "This indicates that each hunter averaged almost 1.5 birds each time he used one of our areas."

Lockart said that more than 52,000 birds were released at the seven areas and that slightly more than 76 percent of them were harvested during the 23 day permit season.

A breakdown of the numbers of birds harvested: Carlyle, 8,147; Chain-O-Lakes, 2,370; Des Plaines, 8,799; Green River, 4,371; Iroquois, 3,865; Rend Lake, 6,901; and Richland County, 5,014.

SOPHOMORE BASKETBALL

The Antioch Sophomore Basketball team lost its second conference game of the season Friday night at the hands of Lake Forest by a score of 31 to 27. The loss dropped Antioch into second place in the conference standings. Lake Forest is now in 1st place with a 9 and 1 record followed by Antioch with a record of 8 and 2. Antioch's season record is now 17 wins and 3 losses.

In Friday's game Russ Albano led the Antioch scoring with 10 points followed by Larry Smith with 9 points. Antioch will meet Round Lake this Friday at Antioch.

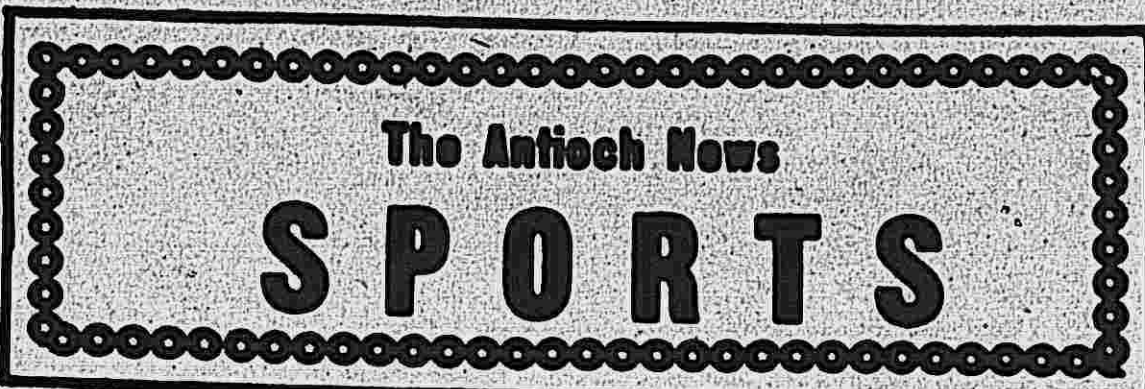

KULPA, WOODS AND NELSON

GIVE WIU WRESTLING PUNCH

Western Illinois' wrestlers have two Invitational Championships tucked under their big, black belts this year and the reasons have been three..... Jim Kulpa (Oak Forest-Tinley Park), Jim Woods (Chicago Hts. - Bloom) and Rick Nelson (Antioch). Both Kulpa and Woods are All-Americans.

The winning trio has combined for 42 victories against eight defeats and a tie.

Nelson and Woods have won titles at the Illinois, Northwest Missouri and Western Invitational. Kulpa has won two of the three championships, since

SEQUOITS BOW TO LAKE FOREST

The chips were down last weekend when the Sequoits traveled to Lake Forest only to be defeated 60-52. It was a sad day for Antioch, if the team had been victorious they would have moved into first place, topping Round Lake, who was also defeated the same night as they were downed by Grant 65-54.

Antioch suffered from a slight problem during the game that can befall any great team, in the words of Coach Andrews: "We just couldn't buy a basket." From the field Antioch was able to sink only 32 percent of their shots, normally the team makes 48-52 percent of their baskets.

Defensively, Antioch was out rebounded and they will have to tighten up in this area before they meet Round Lake this Friday.

The Lake Forest Scouts were able to keep a 5-7 point edge that they had gained early in the game, over the Sequoits. However, this did not dampen Antioch's spirited play as in the fourth quarter they really built up some momentum, but not enough to push them over the top. With only 2½ minutes left in the game Antioch had closed the gap to only two points as the score read 50-48. Mike Gutowski was then fouled but failed to make the free throw. The Scouts made the rebound and two minutes later Antioch was down by 8 points.

Antioch will have another chance for first place this Friday night if they are able to upset Round Lake. If so, he did not participate in the Northwest tournament.

Kulpa, now 12-3, has already beaten such national wrestling reps as Ken Monroe (Wayne State), Greg Hicks (Athletes in Action) and Rich Binek (Iowa State).

Nelson, 15-2-1, has a big victory over Greza Vella (Chicago State), an NCAA place winner last year.

And Woods, 16-3, has upheld his 1972 second place NCAA college finish this season. His last three times out, during the WIU Invitational, the big, 6-6, 260 pounder pinned the opposition.

EMMONS WINS THREE CONFERENCE BATTLES

After opening its season with a big win over Grass Lake, Emmons School has rolled off three successive wins in conference play.

Emmons in its second conference encounter of the year, easily defeated Millburn 36-26. In control all the way, Emmons lead was never smaller than eight points, after midway through the 2nd quarter. Leading the Raiders in scoring were Bill Dubek and Terry O'Brien with 10 each, while Tracy Sodman added 9. High point man for the losers was Bob Herman with 12.

Spring Grove visited the Raiders gym in their next encounter. The game ended in an overtime 38-33 win for the Raiders. At half time the Eagles had a 15-12 lead. Emmons however, outscored the Eagles 13-6 in the third quarter. The game ended in a 31-31 tie with Spring Grove missing several shots during the final seconds of regulation time. The Raiders' O'Brien banged in 4 points in overtime as Emmons outscored its opposition 7-2 in the extra stanza.

Leading all scorers were Emmons' Sodman and Spring Grove's Art Bychowski with 16 each. O'Brien added 8 and Dubek 7 for Emmons.

The Raiders traveled to Lotus for its next conference encounter. The Raiders full court press gave them a commanding 31-12 lead at halftime. In the second half the Raiders hung on for a 44-32 win.

Leading all scorers was Lotus' Mark Meisgeier with 20 points. Emmons showing a balanced attack, was led by Sodman with 15. Dubek and O'Brien each contributed 10, while John Kakacek chipped in 7.

Antioch will then be tied for first place with Round Lake.

SEQUOIT GRAPPLERS WIN DUAL MEET

The Wrestling Sequoits completed their dual meet season this last weekend downing Round Lake 51-8 on Friday and Barrington 50-9 on Saturday. This brings the final meet results to 17 wins 1 loss, and 1 tie. In the Northwest Suburban Conference the record stands at 7-0.

In the victory over Round Lake, Antioch won ten matches, tied one, and lost only one on a disputed pin. The key match in the victory was Bennie Garcia's 5-1 victory at 98 pounds. The Round Lake wrestler had previously defeated Garcia in the county tournament, but Bennie's tremendous improvement during the last season is beginning to show. Gaining pins for Antioch were Roberts at 105, Larsen at 119, Shaffer at 132, Yopp at 185 and Rayniak at Heavyweight.

Traveling to Barrington on Saturday, the Sequoits avenged one of their three losses of last year in style. Antioch recorded 5 victories by pins, two on forfeits, two on points, one tie and only two losses. Larry Yopp responded with two pins over the week-end and appears to be adjusting nicely to his starting assignment.

Coach Ted DeRousse feels the Sequoits are right on schedule. "We try to peak at the end of the season for the tournaments". In wrestling the tournaments are the most important. We are definitely the favorite in the conference tournament and hope to use the conference tournament as the springboard to the district title the next week."

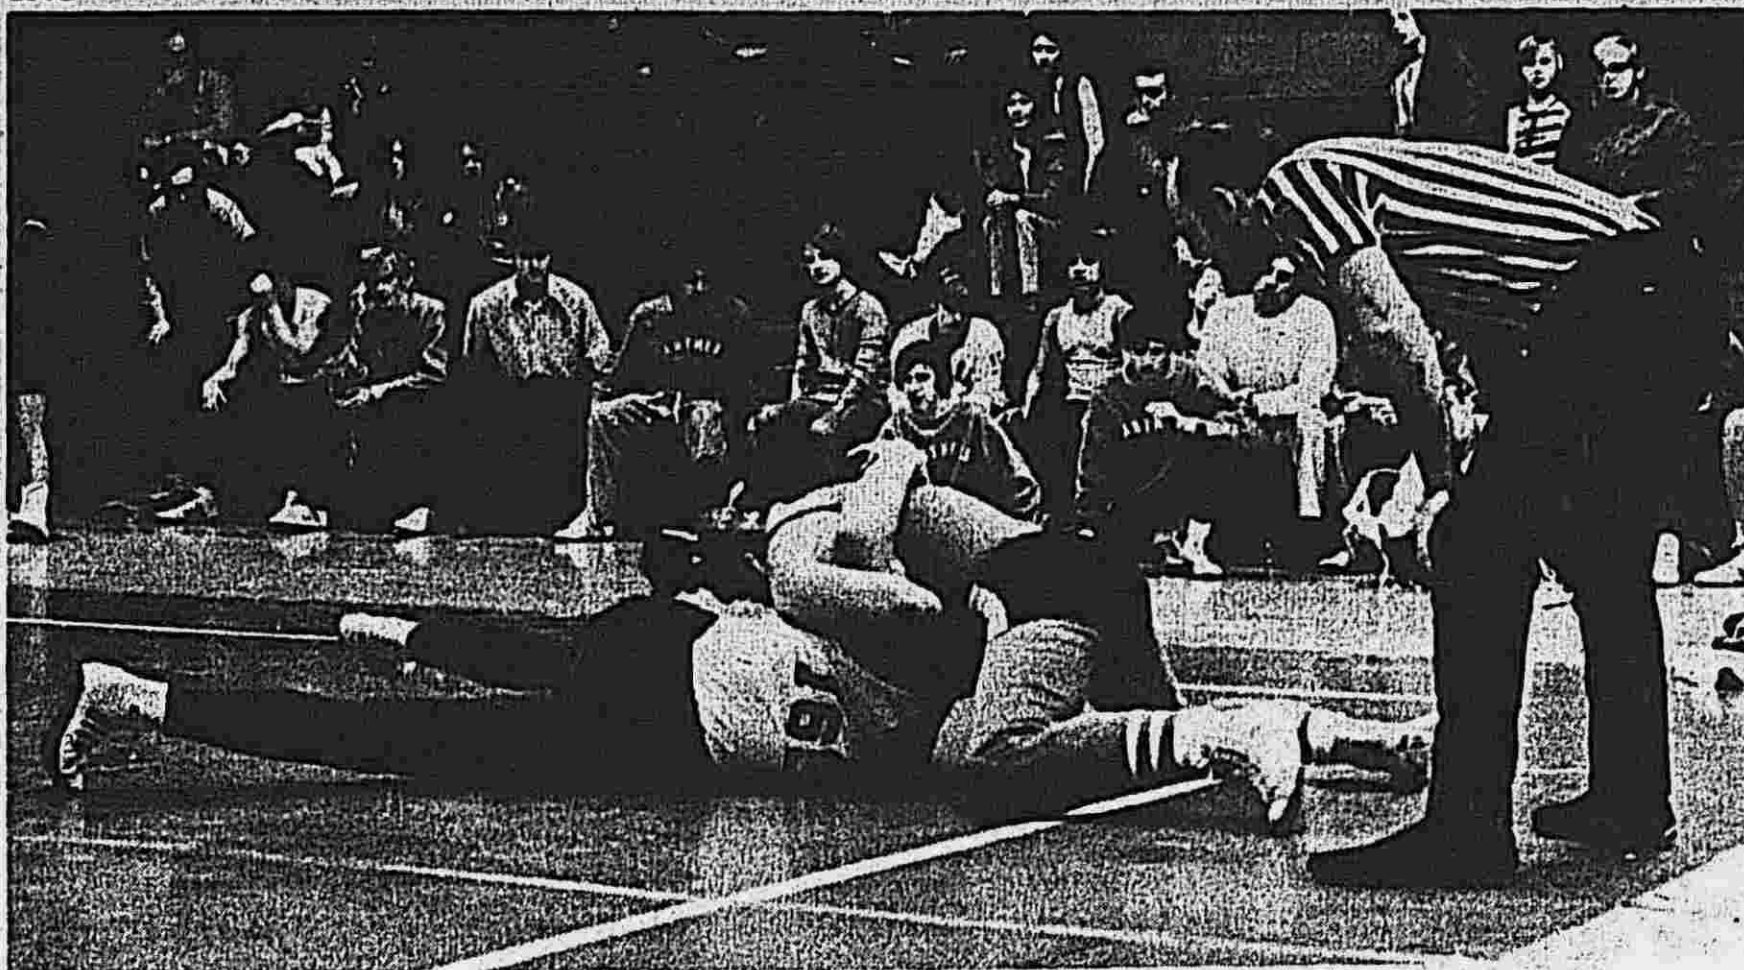

The conference tournament will be held at the new Lake Forest High School (Rte 43 & 60) this Friday and Saturday. Tournament sessions are 7:00 Friday, 1:00 & 7:00 on Saturday. Antioch starts the tournament with 28 points (4 for each of the 7 dual meet victories) with Grayslake close behind with 24. Antioch 7-0; 28 pts

Lake Forest, 3-4; 12 pts
Round Lake, 2-5; 8 pts

Antioch's 17 wins breaks the Sequoit highest victory total of 16 set in 1968-1969.

The average score of 41.9 per meet is a new record.

SOPH WRESTLERS - N.W.S.C. NEXT TOURNEY

The Antioch High School sophomore wrestlers completed the regular season schedule with two exciting victories this past weekend. Friday evening the Sequoits had to come from behind to defeat second place Round Lake by a score of 30-20. It took victories by Jim Morgan, Dale Eastman and Rich Coari to finally assure the Antioch win. On Saturday afternoon, the Antioch matmen defeated Barrington by a score of 31-18. The win was especially sweet for the Sequoits - as Barrington was the only team that was able to defeat the wrestlers during their freshmen year. The double victory weekend gave the Antioch wrestlers a final dual meet record of 18 wins and 1 loss - the best ever for an Antioch Sophomore wrestling team.

This Saturday, the sophomore wrestlers will travel to Lake Zurich for the Northwest Suburban Conference Tourney. The Sequoits will be attempting to defend their current conference crown.
